WELCOME

It is a cold night in the metropolis. It has been raining for days, but tonight the city gets a brief respite. The sky is an open range, and any stars that could be seen, are submerged in the dense smog above the city. In the distance the corporate logos beam their names across the landscape in all their neon glory, casting their spell across the city.

Tonight, is as good as any to plan a murder. Not against some poor soul, searching for a coin in the gutters, or some nine to five salary worker who has two jobs to make ends meet. This plan is against the executives of a large corporation. Previously, they approved an untested vaccine that eventually killed hundreds of innocent people. Incredibly, they had gotten away with it, and without even a slap on the wrist.

The families of the victims were awarded a mere pittance in settlement. There were no words of remorse, and worse still, the vaccine is still being developed and will soon be sold to City Hall for a second time. It would appear that the cure is worse than the cause. No matter, those responsible will be held accountable for their wrongdoing towards the common people of this city. Not in cash, but in blood. There will be no rain tonight, except from the bullets of revenge that will rain heavily over this city.

TARGET: ALEXANDER MOSES

Map used: Augmentation Clinic.

Location: MasterTouch Boutique Clinic.

Objective: Execute Alexander Moses.

‘MasterTouch’ is a body enhancement boutique clinic, situated in the heart of the city center. A place frequented by those that have the buying power to alter their physical appearance, as well as enhance their body. The slogan on their storefront billboard reads, ‘Gods Beauty. Created by Man’.

Alexander Moses is constantly enhancing his perfectly structured physique. He has booked the first appointment at the clinic for every Monday. His young girlfriend travels with him. Her only mission for Moses is to look cute and to safeguard his briefcase. She waits in the lounge area with her eyes glued to her screen, scanning the net for the latest fashion items.

The clinic has its own security measures, managed by its Artificial Intelligence named ‘Sister’. It is in charge of activating gun turrets, door locks and police alert in case of an attack or robbery. The owner of the clinic is a schmoozer who signs his name as Kurtis. He too is an addict of his own clinic, and a bunch of others. His many enhancements have turned him into a kind of Synth-Frankenstein. His abnormally stretched skin, popping eyes and sparkling white teeth seem more like a warning against body enhancement, rather than a calling card. His nondescript features exhibit a synthetic similarity, apart from the phony smile reserved for his customers.

INFORMATION FOR THE PLAYERS

Kentaro could not secure any plans of the clinic or its inner workings. He merely scouted the entrance, side alley and reception trying to get information to help carry out his plan. Later, he will address his findings to the PC’s. The clinic has an entrance leading to reception and a waiting area. A circular pattern indented in the ceiling could signify some sort of security coverage. Down the alley there is a constant movement of trucks and vans arriving and leaving with medicines and medical waste.

It’s up to the PC’s to decide the plan of action to infiltrate the facility and execute Moses. Any additional retrieval of information could be beneficial for future assassinations.

SECURITY AND SURVEILLANCE TEAM

Nearly all of the corporations in the city have contracts with an `SST` (Security & Surveillance Team), either within their corporate structure or hired externally. These are highly trained men and women who are specialists in the art of protection. They guard the most sensitive data and valued executives of the corporations. The executives of `Hikona Corporation` are guarded by `Freeman Security`.

The security firm is made up of ex-military personnel. They have secured contracts with most of the major corporations so this gives them a good insight into the city's security. They focus on protection of corporate data and personnel. Their counter-surveillance team is reputed to be barbaric when the occasion arises. They are also known for their brutality when interviewing employees suspected of a serious misdemeanor.

From their headquarters they can dispatch their security teams to any endangered client. They will not hesitate to respond with violence to anyone who attempts to harm their clients, or steal data.

Freeman Security utilizes an assortment of security specialists as follows:

Undercover: These are the concealed operatives that trail their executives on street level. They are observant to every sound and movement. Anything that looks suspicious is monitored, and answered by force if necessary. Typically, they use small easily concealable handguns and short submachine guns.

Rapid Response: The first units on site to secure the data or client, and deal with any threats. They hit fast and hard, and mostly favor automatic assault rifles.

Heavy Duty: These are the heavy clad armored corporate defenders. The ones who stand in front of their clients taking the brunt of hits. They can take shots from almost any assault rifle in their security armored suit. If these beasts are rolled out, you better head for cover.

FOS (Fire on Sight Crew): Basically, corporate sanctioned assassins. They are the ones called upon when they want to clean up an area of conflict with no interest in taking any of the assailants into custody.

Operations Officer: The officer on the ground. The one that commands his squad to defend the client. He is in continual contact with the central HQ of `Freeman Security`, dispatching more reinforcements when needed.

Below is information on the `Drones` used by Freeman Security:

NIGHT-WARDEN SURVEILLANCE DRONE

A surveillance drone fitted with three of the most advanced sensors that simultaneously capture and process video feed. It is installed with synthetic aperture radar that renders images based on radio waves. The drone also includes night vision and thermal vision options. Used mostly by corporations and secure facilities, it provides an all-seeing eye on the area to be covered. It's alert system provides instant notification of the security services it is assigned to. They come pre-installed with military grade firewalls, not easily breached.

NIGHT-WARDEN PHALANX COMBAT DRONE

Armed with three `Epsilon` pulse rifles with a 360° rotator allowing it to simultaneously target three enemies. It is installed with an optic scanner that aid it in its Detect, Recognize, and Eliminate mode. Its body is covered with magnesium based alloy armor, making it lightweight to fly, yet strongly protected. The drone can perform combat duties in autopilot mode or be handled by a remote operator. It also has a small cargo area capable of storing varied payloads such as gas, chemical agents, or explosive charges. These drones are relied upon because of their speedy and deadly response. It's a cat and mouse game as they roam the sky searching for any possible threats. The enemy will have to either deactivate the drone by hacking or shoot it down.
